MOLLISON MISSING WITH ALL HOPE OF RECORD ELIMINATED

Plane Not Reported After Last Sighted Over Hundred Miles Off Course—Searchers to Leave Capetown at Dawn—Air Mail Pilot Reports Roughest Possible Weather

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Dec. 2 (CP Via Reuter's).—Anxiety was felt tonight for the safety of Captain James Mollison as searchers planned to leave at dawn to search for the flyer and his French co-pilot, Edouard Corniglion-Molinier, missing on a flight from London to the Cape.

Their plane had not been reported since being sighted during the day near Cape Agulhas, most southerly point of Africa, about 130 miles off their course. Some 150 telephone calls during the night to police stations, hotels, farm houses and telephone exchanges throughout the region in which they are believed to have disappeared failed to produce any news as to their whereabouts.

WEATHER VERY BAD
An air mail pilot, who brought his machine to Capetown from Beaufort West during the afternoon, declared the weather was as bad as it could be and that any following plane would have a very rough passage.

By losing his way, Mollison lost any chance he had of breaking the London-Capetown record held by his estranged wife, Amy Johnson Mollison.

The flyers took off this morning from Kimberley, after having been delayed by engine trouble. They hoped, however, to cover the remaining 600 miles to Capetown in time to break the record, but this chance was shattered when they lost their way.

Mrs. Mollison's record for the 8,000-mile flight was three days, six hours and twenty-six minutes.

SEVERE WINDS SWEEP MANILA

Typhoon Strikes Philippine Coast—No Serious Damage Reported

MANILA, Dec. 3 (AP).—High winds preceding a typhoon swept Manila throughout the night, leveling an uncompleted tower on the Philippine Exposition grounds, as the wind force increased in intensity.

The storm approached Manila on a sixty-mile-an-hour gale after having first struck the islands along the coast of Taybas Province. Centre of the typhoon was last reported to be about 100 miles southwest of here, its course changed early this morning to a more westerly direction.

RESIDENTS WELL WARNED
Little damage was reported in the city, because people had had sufficient warning to evacuate. However, the wind flattened temporary structures here last night.

Taybas and other Luzon island provinces were swept by a typhoon only six weeks ago, when at least 346 persons were killed and the missing totaled 1,045.

Freighter Is Disabled Off Nova Scotia

HALIFAX, Dec. 2 (AP).—Two salvage boats bucked heavy seas tonight in a dash to aid the Russian freighter Friedrich Engels, in distress off Sable Island with a broken rudder.

The Foundation Franklin, more powerful of the two, steamed off of Pictou, N.S. The tug Ban Surf later left Halifax to aid in the rescue.

The 3,972-ton freighter, bound to New York from Baltic Sea ports, gave her position about 130 miles southwest of Chebucto Head, N.S. Weather reports said a southeast wind was sweeping the ocean.

MAKE LAST TRIPS

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. Dec. 2 (AP).—More than two dozen lake freighters, bound for lower lake ports on their last trips of the season, passed through the Sault today and pushed their way through heavy ice in the lower St. Mary's River to Lake Huron with little trouble.

PROTEST SITE OF AIR BASE

Conservatives Will Petition Ottawa Against Removal of Indian Agency

Strongly worded protests against development of a four-bounder patrol seaplane station as the main air base in British Columbia, and against implied removal of the Government Indian Agency from Victoria to Vancouver, were passed unanimously last evening by the Victoria Conservative Association.

Brigadier J. S. Brown told the meeting that experienced air officers in Canada had reported unfavorably on the Jericho Beach site, as suitable for a main military air base, and was supported by Gordon A. Cameron, who said expenditures of public money at the site would be a waste of funds.

PROTEST REMOVAL
Suggested removal of the Indian Agency from Federally-owned quarters in Victoria was vigorously protested, as well. The meeting passed formal motions of protest on both points, and will ask Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., to forward them to the proper authorities at Ottawa.

By amendment to its constitution, to be considered finally at an extraordinary general meeting on January 6, the Victoria Conservative Association is moving to give representation to the president, secretary and four members of the Junior Conservatives on the central executive.

Progress was reported in development of that movement, and also in ward organization, through the city.

Wilfrid Lazure, K.C., Succeeds to Vacancy—Other Appointments Pending

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (AP).—Wilfrid Lazure, K.C., Sherbrooke, today was appointed judge of the Superior Court of Quebec, succeeding to the vacancy created by the death a few days ago of Justice A. E. De Longueville. Announcement of the appointment was made by Justice Minister Lapointe following an afternoon session of the Cabinet.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said there were no other announcements following today's meeting of the Government. The session was devoted mainly to preparations for the opening of Parliament on January 14.

EXPECT ANNOUNCEMENTS

Another vacancy on the Superior Court of Quebec, arising yesterday from the death of Mr. Justice Wilfrid Merrett—will be given consideration shortly, and the Government is expected to announce soon a successor to Sir Arthur Doughty, Dominion archivist emeritus, who died yesterday.

While Sir Arthur retired from the actual direction of the archives nearly a year ago, it had been generally understood that no successor would be appointed while he lived.

Several names were mentioned prominently in connection with the appointment during the past several years. It is possible the position will go to a French-Canadian.

Coatings of Ice Hamper Ottawa Firemen

This spectacular Ottawa, Ont., blaze in the lumber yard of the Mayo Davis Company, consumed one million feet of lumber, threw twenty-six persons out of work, made forty-two homeless, and did damage estimated at $125,000. Firemen were hampered in their efforts by freezing weather, which caused coatings of ice to form on men and equipment.

Son of Former Attorney-General Wins Rhodes Scholarship

VANCOUVER, Dec. 2 (AP).—E. Davie Fulton, son of a former Provincial Attorney-General, the late F. J. Fulton, K.C. of Kamloops, tonight was selected as British Columbia's 1936 Rhodes Scholar. Davie graduated from University of British Columbia in 1935. His father was Attorney-General in the Government of the late Sir Richard McBride in 1906, and was Federal member for the Cariboo in 1917.

During his scholastic career Davie was a member of the University of British Columbia debating team which took part in intercollegiate debate with universities of Toronto, McGill and Stanford. He was active in the University Parliamentary Forum, a member of the Varsity Rowing Club and member of the Players Club, university dramatic organization.

Appeal Made to The King to Set Rumors at Rest

Constitutional Troubles Foreseen Arising From Relations Between His Majesty and the Government—Public Statement by Bishop of Bradford Brings Matter to the Fore

By GEORGE W. HAMILTON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP).—Behind the apparently quiet scenes of Westminster, constitutional troubles are brewing. They arise from the relations between the King and the Government. Since the accession of Edward VIII, Britain has become a vast whispering gallery. Stories of his friendship with Mrs. Ernest Simpson pass endlessly from mouth to mouth.

PROMISE OF LONG AGO WELL KEPT

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Dec. 2 (AP).—Alex Campbell, sixty-three-year-old resident of Victoria, B.C., today fulfilled a promise he made his "mother fifty-four years ago.

On her death-bed, Mrs. Campbell made her nine-year-old son promise to visit the grave of his great-uncle, Rev. Donald Stewart, of Cromie, Perthshire, Scotland, here.

Campbell's visit coincided with the 150th anniversary of his great-uncle's death, and a special service was held in a nearby village churchyard to re dedicate the body.

France Will Match Naval Programmes of Neighbors

PARIS, Dec. 2 (AP).—France tonight announced plans for a huge naval building programme as an answer to increased warship construction by Germany and Italy.

The Minister of Marine outlined his programme to the chamber navy committee and said "It responds to increased power of the German and Italian fleets."

He informed the committee he would ask Parliament to make available as soon as the

TERROR AND MADNESS SURGE THROUGH AIR-STRAFED MADRID

Huge Scenes of Horror in Spanish Capital When Fascist Air Raids Bring Death to Men, Women and Children—Gas Cases in Hospital Following the Bombardment

Government Holding Lines On West Manzanares Bank

MADRID, Dec. 2 (AP).—Hundreds of men, women and children were believed killed today in three Fascist air raids opening a fearful assault on hunger-ridden, besieged Madrid. At nightfall there were fifty-six known dead, with Red Cross officials unable to total the exact number of mangled bodies lying in the debris-littered streets and wrecked houses.

The insurgents, angered by defeats the day before after their inability to capture Madrid in four weeks' siege, unleashed the bloodiest attack and bombardment in the city's history. At least seven high-explosive bombs were dumped in the city by the raiders.

SCENE OF MADNESS

Terror and madness surged through Madrid as the Fascist populace trembled again under exploding air bombs as they had not heard for ten days.

One woman in Jordan Street went mad when she came home from a shopping trip and saw the bodies of her two children hanging grotesquely from the third floor of their blasted apartment.

Madrid's main thoroughfare, Gran Via, was thick with pedestrians when the raiding air fleet dropped its first bomb high over the city. Quickly the streets cleared, with everybody above ground diving pell-mell for shelter in basements and subways.

FIRST GAS CASES

Hospitals charged several patients brought in after the bombardment and shelling were "gas cases"—the first of the siege. Doctors did not say what type of gas they thought had been used.

CHARGE RUSSIA HELPING SPAIN

Nazi Party and Press Say Pact of Mutual Assistance Has Been Signed

BERLIN, Dec. 2 (AP).—A sensational charge Russia had signed a mutual assistance treaty with the Spanish Government, and was equipping the Leningrad army with all the instruments of modern warfare, was made today.

The "official correspondence" of the Nazi party issued the charge, and the entire German press took it up.

It followed an official denial Germany had landed 5,000 troops on Spanish insurgent territory, and on reports Chancellor Hitler had decided to denounce the twenty-year-old "hands off Spain" accord owing to Russia's alleged armed aid to the Loyalists.

THREE-POINT ASSERTION

According to the Nazi organ's assertions the following agreement had been reached between Valencia and Moscow:

1. Under terms of a mutual assistance accord, concluded by Premier Francisco Largo Caballero and the Soviet Ambassador, Maxim Litvinov, the Valencia Government is paying Moscow 500,000,000 pesetas in exchange for military aid.

2. Arms, munitions, tanks, planes and war chemicals are being supplied to the Loyalist forces in Catalonia and the rest of Government-held Spain by Russia.

3. Moscow is likewise equipping an "international Communist army" to fight in Spain against the insurgents.

HITLER HOLDING LIVES IN POWER

German Catholics Are Roused by Dictator's Conspiration of Every Girl and Boy

BERLIN, Dec. 2 (AP).—The newly-appointed youth leader of the German Reich declared today the "lives" of all German youth belong solely to Adolf Hitler, while Catholic authorities conferred on what could be done in the face of Hitler's conscription of every German girl and boy into the Hitler youth movement.

The youth leader of the German Reich, Baldur von Schirach, at the same time issued assurance that he had no intention of "raising false gods for the German youth."

Leading Catholics, however, insisted the series of decrees promulgated by the Nazi Cabinet Tuesday violated the state and church settlement of 1933 and might lead to "grave conflict."

School Board Makes Several Changes in Governing By-Laws

Formation of Special Educational Committee to Be Incorporated—Trustees to Serve on Three Committees—Ruling on Teachers' Absence

FORMATION of a special educational committee, upon which all members will serve, was decided by the school board last evening, and will be incorporated as an amendment to by-laws. It was also agreed to adopt Trustee Walter E. Staneland's suggestion, constituting all trustees, members of finance and buildings and grounds committees. Three chairmen will be appointed by the board chairman, Trustee W. C. Moresby, K.C.

CHANGED HER SHOES FIVE TIMES A DAY

Suffered for 20 Years With Rheumatism

Try and picture the life this woman led for twenty years—changing her shoes several times a day in a vain endeavor to attain some relief from the rheumatic pains that were constantly troubling her. Then imagine her joy when she found that Kruschen was driving away the rheumatism. This is what she writes:

"I have been using Kruschen Salts for four years. For twenty years previously I had suffered with my feet, sometimes changing my shoes five times a day, and frequently sitting without any as the pain was so great. Now I can wear the same pair of shoes all day with comfort. I cannot speak too highly of Kruschen Salts. Only those who had been in constant pain with their feet for years can realize what it is to be free."—(Mrs.) E.A.

It is deposits of excess uric acid, lodging between the joints, which are frequently the cause of rheumatism. Kruschen Salts contain two ingredients—sodium and potassium—which are effective solvents of uric acid.

A motion of Trustee Bishop, that committee meetings be held in the school board office, and the secretary be instructed to keep minutes of proceedings, was passed. It was decided that the order of business at all regular board meetings should be the minutes, delegations, communications, reports of committees, reports of the municipal inspector and other officials, unfinished business and new business. No variation in the foregoing business will be permitted, unless by a majority vote of the board taken without debate.

CHANGES MADE
Clause 3 of Section I of the by-laws, "the chairman of the board shall be ex-officio a member of all committees," was ordered eliminated. Duties of the board secretary were altered to embrace issuing requisitions for supplies. It was decided to alter Section 5 to read: "Pupils will be admitted to the lowest primary classes once a year only, in the month of September."

The following resolution of Trustee Ferguson was passed: "In case a teacher is absent on account of illness longer than the period of sick leave, or unavoidable quarantine allowed by the act, or is absent for any length of time for reasons other than sickness, except such absence as is allowed all teachers by the Department of Education, or in cases of exceptional circumstances, a deduction of one twenty-fifth part of his or her monthly salary shall be made for each day's absence."

An offer of Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club to provide a memorial scholarship in the name of the late Miss Wiggin was accepted with thanks. The award is for $50 and will be made to an outstanding girl in the third year of Victoria High School commercial class, who wishes to continue with her business education.

George H. Deane, municipal inspector, was asked to interview the Department of Education to see if it would be possible to provide those who completed evening technical classes, with certificates outlining efficiency and standing.

Trustee George called attention to the dilapidated condition of King's Road School, stating $2,000 would be required to put it in good shape. He thought it might be demolished. Mr. Deane convinced trustees it would be wise to delay such a move.

Ward Five Liberal Association Holds Annual Election Of Officers

Expressing confidence in his leadership, Ward Five Liberal Association unanimously re-elected E. M. Whyte president at the annual election of officers last night. Mr. Whyte thanked the gathering and complimented the members and officers for their co-operation during the past year.

Richard W. Jenkin was re-elected vice-president. Victor Speed was chosen to succeed Lawrence H. McLaren as secretary. Walter Harris, Jr. was again elected treasurer. Those named to the executive were: Mrs. J. S. Atkins, Mrs. L. Barnes, H. E. A. Courtenay, F. N. J. White, W. W. Davey and Mrs. R. Simms. R. W. Jenkin and F. N. J. White were selected as representatives to the central executive.

W. J. Scott was re-elected honorary president, and C. J. McDowell, honorary vice-president.

TO REPRESENT ISLAND
The treasurer's report showed the association had a balance of $17.27 on hand.

Major H. M. McGivern, president of the central executive council, and Mr. McDowell, spoke briefly.

C. H. O'Halloran will represent Vancouver Island Liberals at a com-

Is Given Ruling Powers

The Maharajah of Gwalior is shown leading his troops in a colorful review that marked the Maharajah's investiture, with full ruling powers, over the State of Gwalior, by Lord Linlithgow, Viceroy of India. The ceremony took place in the Durbar Hall of the Maharajah's palace at Gwalior, upon the Maharajah's recent coming of age.

ling meeting in Ottawa of Canadian Liberals leaders, Major McGivern explained. There Mr. O'Halloran will seek more recognition for the island, early starts on the West Coast Road, airport and marine building, and extension of the national housing programme to the island.

Canada should have its own flag, asserted Major McGivern, suggesting a simple design be adopted. He said the association might strike a committee to study the question and possibly write the Prime Minister. The Dominion had no longer the right to use the Union Jack, he claimed.

NEED PROGRAMME
To help create a greater national spirit, the speaker suggested that Federal ministers should be urged to travel extensively throughout the Dominion.

Mr. McDowell said Victoria had lost out in the past through its inability to decide just what it wanted. He stated he would recommend to the central council of the Victoria Liberal Association that a programme of the city and island's needs be drawn up and strongly supported.

The new national home improvement scheme would be of great benefit to the city, the speaker predicted, and said he was sure the Housing Act would be regulated for Victoria as to prove a boon in the near future.

TERROR SURGES THROUGH MADRID

Gonzalez Street; another laid waste one side of the Calle Jordan, in Cuatro Caminos, where two British M.P.'s narrowly escaped with their lives.

They said they had been told by leaders of Madrid defences that their own presence in the city had caused the Fascists to halt their bombardments, but that apparently the attackers believed a Seville radio report that the Britons had left.

The British M.P.'s visiting Madrid in the midst of the fighting, in cases had been evacuated to hospitals outside the city.

A DIRECT PROTEST
They protested directly to General Franco, commander of the insurgent forces, against the "outrage" of bombing the civilian population. Their telegram was sent to the insurgent chief through diplomatic channels.

Two shells crashed into a house directly opposite the British Embassy on Fernando El Santo Street, filling the Embassy gardens with bricks, splintered wood and clouds of dust.

On the Guadarrama front, insurgents stormed San Agustin Hill near Escorial in an attempt to cut off Madrid from its forces in that area. Government pilots apparently could not sight the high-flying raiders. Haze clouded most of the ships.

JUNTA SHAKEN UP
The Madrid defence junta was shaken up just before the raids, with the Communist, Mije, replaced as war commissar by the proletarian youth representative, Enrique Garcia. Colonel Jose Miaja, however, retained his post as head of the defence junta.

A Scottish ambulance driver returning to Madrid with a load of wounded said Government forces were still holding lines along the west bank of the Manzanares River, against the second international brigade of anti-Fascists, said the insurgents deliberately were sniping at Red Cross men and that it had become necessary to send tanks to protect stretcher bearers.

CIVIC MATTERS ARE DISCUSSED

Mayor Leeming and Ald. McGavin Give Campaign Speeches at Plants

Mayor David Leeming spoke on civic questions at the British America Paint Company, Ltd., plant yesterday afternoon and will visit the New Method Laundry this afternoon. Alderman Andrew McGavin, who is contesting the mayoralty, spoke at the Victoria Machinery Depot Company, Ltd., and the Economy Steam Laundry. He will visit the New Method Laundry this afternoon.

J. Carl Pendray introduced Mayor Leeming as an old friend whose whole heart and interest had been in Victoria for the past forty-three years. The Mayor spoke on the necessity of the city securing a readjustment of its debt to continue as a solvent entity.

He pointed out that owing to a decrease in tax collections, a reduction in grants from the Provincial Government, loss of revenue from the land department and the additional burden of unemployment relief and new social services, the city was incapable of balancing its budget out of current revenue. Relief had to be sought by appealing to bondholders for a readjustment of debt obligations. He stated losses of revenue and increased charges amounted to $646,000.

BIG SUM NEEDED
Taxpayers failed to realize the amount required to meet interest charges and payments on account of the capital sum amounted to over $1,300,000 for 1937. As other costs of operation of civic departments had been reduced to a minimum compatible with good service, a solution of the problem must be met elsewhere, he declared.

Mayor Leeming asserted the only way out was by debt readjustment. He said anyone claiming the vote of taxpayers should give in some detail the manner in which the $646,000 was to be met other than by debt readjustment. He closed by making an appeal for the vote and influence of those present.

Alderman McGavin declared his platform would support a happy and prosperous city. The principal plank was a fiscal policy to protect people's pockets, an administration un-influenced by outside forces, a mayor who would stay in the city, an independent audit, followed by business action without sentiment, and a B. C. Electric franchise without strings fair to all.

CLAIMS MISRULE
He reminded those present of the large number who contributed regularly for many years to the City Treasury and were faced with losing their homes to the taxation monster. The burden was eased, he declared, through misrule, mismanagement and extravagance. The position of the city was now infinitely worse than when Mayor Leeming took office five years ago. He used them not to be bewitched by tales that the city's financial position was entirely due to mayors who held office more than five years ago.

Alderman McGavin declared Mayor Leeming's duty was clear: to curtail expenses, eliminate waste, prevent extravagance and cut the city's cost to suit the cloth, but claimed by needless expenditure, waste and extravagance the "kit" had been knocked away and the city had been sent sliding down to bankruptcy. He explained how his policy would demand a full dollar's value for every dollar spent.

He told how during his four years' service as an alderman he had done his share in cutting the city's expenses, being one of the exponents, too, in his orchestra of between sixty and seventy instrumentalists, there are nine major nationalities, a Chinese drummer, a Japanese player, the first classical and English, American, French, German, Australian, Hawaiian, and Korean musicians play the other instruments.

Among the many interesting visitors to Honolulu whom he met last year was Bernard Shaw whom he found to be a delightful personality despite his reputation as a cynic. This, says Mr. Hart, is a pose. Actually, "O.B.S." is the kindest and most charming of men.

On his way through Canada, Mr. Hart stopped off for several weeks to visit Miss Eva Hart in Ottawa.

Lady Lake Opens St. Paul's Bazaar

The St. Paul's, Esquimalt branch of the W. A. to the M.S.C.C., held a successful bazaar in the church house on Tuesday afternoon. The bazaar was opened by Lady Lake-Dioscorus, president, who was welcomed by the rector, Rev. Arthur Buchner. On behalf of the W. A. Miss Helen Piddington presented Lady Lake with a bouquet of chrysanthemums.

There was a good attendance, and the fairs were well attended. Mrs. W. A. Barclay and Mrs. R. Narroct, did a brisk business. Mrs. A. W. Seale and Mrs. B. D. Robinson, in charge of cooked food, and Mrs. A. S. Reed and Mrs. Norman with candies quickly disposed of their wares.

Mrs. G. A. Piddington, the president, was in charge of general arrangements.

The White Elephant stall was conducted by Mesdames R. McVie, A. Draper and G. Shear. The girls' W. A. stall by Mrs. J. P. Hicks and Miss Elsie Hall, and the boys' stall by Mrs. Perry and Mrs. Mitchell. The wares were served by Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. W. Reed, assisted by Mrs. H. A. Bennett, Mrs. Mitchell and Miss P. Lockley.

MOTOR DRIVING PERMITS

Most of the speakers at the National Safety Conference, recently held at Ottawa, were in the belief that permits to drive motor cars are granted too easily in this country. These permits are rarely refused. All that is required is the ability to stop and start a car, to back up on a clear road and to turn corners. There are no qualifications expected in the matter of the exercise of care, caution and courtesy on the road. There is no examination at all as to the physical and mental qualifications of the applicant, and what are the qualities of common sense and good judgment possessed by the driver. It does not enter into the matter at all. It is the lack of a thorough examination of would-be drivers that is a contributory factor to so many accidents. The trouble is that governments are over-anxious to secure revenue by the issue of licences and sale of driving permits, and too little concerned for safety of life and property.

Sir Robert Borden and others who attended the National Safety Conference expressed the belief that there should be uniform tests for drivers throughout the country, and that the standard set should be high. With the roll of accidents continually mounting, the test for drivers remains perfunctory. In this particular, Provincial Governments should forget about revenue and concentrate on safety. There should be a uniform and rigid test applied to those seeking driving permits, and it should be enforced to the limit.

AUSTRALIA'S EXAMPLE

Australia is setting an example to the Empire in the reduction of taxation. When financial affairs, so far as the Commonwealth Government was concerned, reached a crisis in 1931 new taxes were imposed to yield $18,000,000. Business improved in Australia, and where taxes in effect today they would be yielding $25,000,000. With the betterment in conditions, Australia realized that nothing would give a greater stimulus to a restored prosperity than the reduction of taxation. Last year remissions were granted amounting to $10,000,000. In the latest budget remissions aggregating $5,000,000 more are granted. These involve a reduction in the sales tax, and an extension of exemptions, a reduced income tax, a scaling down of the primage tax and the abolition of the special property tax. In addition, Australia has been able to restore civil service salaries to the pre-depression levels; it has increased old age and invalid pensions, and in the former reduced the pension age to 65 years for men and 60 for women.

Australia has done all this by careful methods of finance. She is able, in spite of this alleviation, to do more in the matter of national and Imperial defence than any other part of the British Empire with the exception of Great Britain herself. It is a notable achievement and will redound to the advantage of the Commonwealth in the matter of increased population and development. Canada could well make a study of Australian finances and see how they have been brought to such a salutary stage, for as yet in this country—federally, provincially and municipally—there is little or no sign of remission of taxation, and yet that course would be the best of all steps that could be taken towards a greater prosperity.

WORLD'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

Unless something happens to rescue it from financial embarrassment, the oldest surviving newspaper in the world will cease to exist on New Year's Day. The number "30," the journalistic symbol of the end, will be written on the record of Gazet van Gent (The Gazette of Ghent) printed at the capital of East Flanders in Belgium. For nearly two and three-quarter centuries this journal has been issued without any interruption, except during the German invasion of the Great War. Published as a bi-weekly, its first issue came out on January 1, 1667. It is, indeed, a patriarch among newspapers. Alongside of it, The London Times, which made its bow to the public as The Daily Universal Register on January 1, 1785, is a late comer. As for The Daily Colonist, edging up to fourscore, and which advertises itself as "the oldest newspaper upon the Pacific Coast," this family journal confesses itself positively juvenile.

The life-span of the European patriarch covers nearly the whole history of newspaperdom. Preceded by occasional news letters, the first regular weekly newspaper in England, The Weekly News, which may be seen in the British Museum, was published in 1622 by Andrew and Bourne and mainly chronicled foreign events. With the abolition of the Star Chamber came the English periodical with domestic news. The name of the winged god Mercury was freely adopted by early publications, such as "Mercurius Cyclicus", the first regularly-published illustrated periodical in London, "Mercurius Britannicus", which appeared in 1644, and "Mercurius Politicus", of which John Milton was editor for a year or more. These and ten thousands of other journalistic ventures of the intervening years The Ghent Gazette has seen come and go.

There is an official organ of government, though not a newspaper, that belongs to the veteran class of the Flemish journal. This is The London Gazette, first published in 1665 as The Oxford Gazette. The oldest of the provincial papers is The Lincoln, Rutland and Stamford Mercury, which was born in 1693, after the censorship was relaxed following the revolution of 1688. In 1699 appeared The Edinburgh Gazette, a bi-weekly, and in 1705 The Daily Courant, the first English daily, a small sheet printed on one side only, the editor-proprietor of which confined himself to news and news. Lloyd's List, the well-known commercial daily, began as Lloyd's News in 1666. With the eighteenth century came Daniel Defoe, the first English journalistic writer of importance, and Steele and

Addison, who started The Spectator in 1711. The newspaper progress of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries and the rise in the twentieth century of the million-copy daily have been watched from the editorial rooms of Gazet van Gent. It has had ups and downs, and now it looks as if the list of its editors must soon write its "morituri salutate."

SOUND SYNTAX

A Chicago columnist, one Mr. Howard Vincent O'Brien, found himself in a peck of trouble the other day because he commented on an exordium of a St. Louis business man to his employees in which he urged upon them the desirability of clear, concise and understandable English, and in the last paragraph said: "If you are interested, I will give you, free of charge, a book of collected essays by Christopher Morley, one of which is entitled: 'The Decay of Syntax.'" The columnist seized upon this and reprinted it in quotation marks, explaining its origin. Evidently many newspapers are read without understanding of clear and concise English, for there was an immediate demand upon Mr. O'Brien for copies of the book in question. Some of the applicants could not believe that it would be given away free, and offered to pay for it. Stacks of letters arrived in the columnist's mail; his telephone was never idle. "With one voice," he said, "the nation had risen to demand what I haven't even seen myself."

He was forced to write another column telling how the offer was not made by him but by the St. Louis business man (Mr. Festus J. Wade, Jr.) who says the incident is practically closed, as he is only receiving a hundred letters per diem requesting the book, and so he is at liberty to speculate on why it is so greatly in demand. He does not believe that it is enough to say that it was a free offer. The explanation, he thinks, lies deeper, and he suggests that if the Republicans had campaigned on the issue of "Sound Syntax" they would have put their man in the White House. Moreover, he concludes that his column exercises its maximum pull in power when he speaks that the echo is heard. As to other reasons for the extraordinary demand, Mr. O'Brien says he will retire to some hole, not connected with a telephone, and meditate. He winds up his explanation by retelling that it was Mr. Wade who made the free offer, and he adds a postscript to the effect that the said Wade "made it only to his employees."

A Florida newspaper offered a year's subscription to whoever gave the best answer to the question, "Why is a woman like a newspaper?" Such answers were received as: "Because you can't leave anything they want," "Because they are easy to read," "Because they are well worth looking over," "Because back numbers are not usually worth what they cost," "Because they carry the news everywhere they go." The winner of the subscription gave this definition: "Because every man should have one of his own, and not run after his neighbor's."

The Hudson's Bay Railway was constructed so that Western farmers might ship their wheat cheaper to the markets of Europe. The enterprise was responsible for an outlay of $70,000,000. It has been in operation for over five years. During that time 18,000,000 bushels of wheat have been shipped through Churchill. There have been few, if any, more striking examples of spendthrift zeal on the part of government than the building of the Hudson's Bay Railway.

AUTUMN FRAGRANCE

It is not easy alone that gather treasure
In swirls of gold and crimson from the wind,
For like the hound we take the final measure
Of harvest fragrance—subtly changing, thinned,
The essences from the leaves, the heart of the fruit.
The frost-touched apples that the meadow holds
The newly-ploughed field, dung odors strangely sweet
Against the pungency of mardolids.

These things we breathe against the winter days,
These memories cherish until April wake,
And once again alone her Springtime ways
New vials of beauty and of perfume break.
God grant our hoarding last until the hour
We scent the yielding earth that holds a flower.
—Catherine Gale Coblenz in Yankee.

Note and Comment

By Sandham Graves

Life at times is too much for one, too rich a mixture, coming too fast to be savaged with discrimination. Oh! I can stand sound money in the northeast corner and repudiation in the southwest wing of politics. I can agree with His Excellency that the dignity of parliaments must be upheld, so long as parliaments show a nice regard for their own. It is not that. But this business of unfinished dramas on the stage of life is getting me down.

You remember Orgill and the turtle-race at Lepanto? Well, as far as I am concerned that race is still on, and no one has been declared the winner. Then at Pelham, foolhardy-businessmen and their wives are still engaged in that spelling-bee, for all I can learn to the contrary. They must be down to "Zoroaster." And now, just when the world has discovered a twentieth century D'Aragan, the news services of the world have suspended between the second and the ninth duels he has engaged to fight, in defence of his principles.

With bated breath I read where he had faced his first opponent on the field of honor. Pistols cracked sharp and clear in the half-light of a November day. Seconds strained their eyes to see who would fall; but no man fell. They had, as the Indians say, shot holes in the sky. Then the duellers embraced, taking a fearful chance with microbes in a bacteriological age, with ratios as high as one to five—but let that pass.

Next the challenger, undaunted, faced his second foe. Pistols faked out, once again. Opponent Two dropped his weapon and clutched his arm, pinned clear in the funny-bone, and that's no laughing matter! Honor was twice satisfied. But seven more duels to go!

Then the police stepped in. Wild indiscriminate shooting in the suburbs had alarmed the neighbors, so they said. Pinking a man in the arm at twenty or thirty paces looks like pretty fair shooting, to me. But policemen are fussy at times. No doubt they have to be. So they said "sabres."

Now, here's the point. Here is a man who killed nine men and the world at large to harm his name. He poked one, kissed another, and for ought I know was quite prepared to hit or kiss right down the line, unflinchingly. That takes courage of a high degree. But do you think we can get the finish of this story? I have looked for days, in vain!

Just think of it! Somewhere out on the outskirts of D'Aragan's city, in a quiet glade at Budapest, sabres may be clashing at this moment. The challenger or his adversaries (numbers three to nine) may be slowly carving one another into chunks. The ring of steel on steel is flashing out as it did in days of old, and without Aramis or Porthos to assist, and we cannot get word of it. No! a line beyond the second duel, the pinked one. Now, is that journalism?

But maybe I've missed the cable. Perhaps, by now, D'Aragan and his foes have agreed on tanks, or planes, or submarines. It would be quite in keeping with the times. On all fours, so to speak, with the very best and most advanced of practices. But that would be a story, too. Where are our news services? Is censorship to blame? Have liberties succumbed entirely to some blue-pencilling overlord? I trust not.

Strange things are happening in the name of liberty. At Melbourne, Australia, the other day, the authorities arrested a man for stopping in a backyard to listen to someone singing "Mother MacGreer." "Lolting," they said. But it may have been counter-propaganda, too. They may have objected on monetary grounds to that bit that goes: "I love the dear silver—" You know how it is? Bi-metalism is contentious.

People are upset, anyway. Down at Kingston, N.C. this very week a man jumped in the river because he thought he felt a mouse in his overalls. Ordinarily, he would have taken off the overalls, I feel quite sure. But no, he had to jump in the river. He took the combined efforts of police and fire departments to get him out. And there again, what became of the mouse? Why can't we learn the whole of the story, say, for once? It would renew our faith in life. It would give us patience and understanding when we have to think of parliaments. It would—but what is the use? Some day I am going to chase these stories down to earth myself. I'll visit Budapest, Lepanto, Kingston and the rest, and find out what has happened. It is, perhaps, the only way!

To Run for Ward Post in Saanich

Following close on the announcement of retirement by Councillor W. R. Woods, George Austin stated yesterday he would seek election for the Ward Four council post in the January elections in Saanich. Mr. Austin, who resides on Olivi Road, has lived in Saanich for the past fifteen years. His platform, he said, would be a balanced budget, careful expenditure and a square deal to everyone.

BURNING OLD PAPERS BRINGS THE ENGINES

LONDON, Dec. 2 (A.P.).—Three fire engines rushed to the Way Office in Whitehall today and succeeded in quelling clouds of smoke from a too-tightly-crammed fireplace, where a clerk was burning old papers.

Far From "Slender"

A report came over the wires the other day that a "slender golf professional" by the name of Ralph Guldahl, from St. Louis, had won the $5,000 Augusta open tournament. Well, his recollections of Guldahl when he played in the $3,000 open last summer at the Oak Bay links was that he was a man of six feet, one inch, and weighed close to 200 pounds. Ralph wasn't what you would call "fat," but very well built. One thing certain he was far from "slender." During his three-day stay here Guldahl made a host of friends for he was very unassuming, avoided the spotlight as much as possible and was a real gentleman on and off the course. The St. Louis professional was the lad who putted his way out of a tie for first place in the U.S. open tournament the year before last. When he missed a fourteen-inch putt on the seventy-second green, "That's the game of golf," he remarked to me in the clubhouse when questioned about his misadventure.

Roses and Reasons

Parade's annual millions to witness the Annual Tournament of Roses Parade on New Year's Day. For vantage points to witness this gigantic parade, persons take up their stand on Colorado Street the night before. By eight o'clock in the morning you can get within blocks of the parade. The same Colorado Street is probably the most unique Main Street in the world. If you stay on it long enough you will arrive in New York City.

With all the glitz of Hollywood or Los Angeles compared to beauty with Terwilliger Boulevard in Portland. Out at the Grand Central Hotel at Glendale, where we were told several young Victorians are taking student instruction there is a cocktail bar with a novel setting. The interior is set like the main lounge in a coast-to-coast plane. Literally hundreds of planes, big and small, take off from this airport at all times of the day and night.

Little cities around L.A. have decent airports. They are used considerably. Victoria could do worse than have one—W.J.H.

We'll Never See 'Em

We see where they've put Sir Wilfred Laurier's portrait on thousand dollar bills—pardon us, but a minute while we pull a bill out of the old wallet and have another look at the great statesman—W.F.

Where Is Victoria?

Just where is Victoria situated, East or West? Ontario and Quebec, etc., are referred to as Eastern Canada, and China and Japan are in exactly the opposite direction: as the "far East." Yet visitors from Saskatchewan, Winnipeg, etc., tell us they come from the "West!" So they leave us—just where?—R.F.G.

Things City Might Copy

Buffalo, New York, requires all buildings and houses to have street numbers at least four inches high and of black to contrast with the background. Bowling Green, Kentucky, has passed an ordinance requiring property owners to cut all pollen-producing plants in front of their property in an attempt to make the lot of hay fever sufferers cooler. New York taxicabs with drivers are allowed to park in front of fire hydrants until fire apparatus approaches. The Grand City Hall janitor is called upon to do many things that are not in his regular line of duty. One afternoon this week a mother left her baby in the first floor corridor while she visited the water department. Soon the child made its presence known by a series of loud howls. The janitor was in and found the baby. The mother was in and found the baby. The janitor was in and found the baby. The mother was in and found the baby.

This gentleman surely did not tell him to arrange a special meeting, to be held at the residence of the Council, and a motion to gather $18,000 for a "trip to England, Scotland, New York, Toronto, etc., and which had not been for my issuing the writ and stopping this

Letters to the Editor

THE EDITOR:—The editor will be interested to know that the writer of the letter in the issue of November 29, 1936, has received the Social Credit movement. This is false, and is not true.

VICTORIA SOCIAL CREDIT ASSOCIATION

Sir—I noticed in your column of your issue of November 29 a statement to the effect that I have resigned from the Social Credit movement. This is false, and is not true. I have not resigned, nor do I intend to resign from the movement. I wish to inform all Social Crediters and those interested that it is my intention to continue to organize and to stimulate interest in Social Credit proposals, and it will be my determined effort to so organize about the line of democratic representation.

Groups will be set up who will elect their officers; these, in turn, will elect constituency representatives, using these representatives at provincial conventions. From these groups to provincial conventions candidates will be selected by ballot who will represent the consensus of opinion of those groups. I would advise those interested in the Social Credit movement to demand that their local groups or associations elect their representation. This is their "right." Only by this means can the masses determine direct representation for themselves.

Kindly notify the undersigned, who will be pleased to arrange for organization, and who will also arrange to supply speakers for districts not yet organized.

THE ANGLICAN CHURCH

Sir—I was much interested in Mr. Ellis-Tucker's letter, but would like further information on the subject. He seems to say, in the second paragraph, that it is a drawback to confine values within a name, yet, at the same time, he, in paragraph four, likes the name Anglican because "it doesn't sound cumbersome."

What does that mean in such a regard? In calling it the "Catholic Church of Canada," what is to be done for the poor folks who are not of Canada? Are they to be excommunicated and put in the church in Britain in communion with the See of Rome until the time of Henry and Elizabeth Tudor? Please get down The Colonist history of England and put us quite wise. The church of our forefathers is the Catholic Church, so that I heartily endorse his penultimate paragraph. Let us indeed hope it will be "The Old Church."

THE CRYSTAL PALACE

Sir—The news of the destruction by fire of the Crystal Palace has been heard with regret by many Britishers all over the world.

The architectural design has been criticized by many, but to the hundreds of thousands, eye millions, who have spent their Bank holidays, or witnessed the fireworks on Thursday nights, to say nothing of the "Buck's Benefit," its passing will be mourned. T. A. SIMMONS

RED CROSS APPEAL

Sir—Canada has been happy to see the Red Cross appeal for the relief of the victims of the fire in Northern Ontario in 1922. We have had a respite for fourteen years. Today there are 250,000 Canadians in the drought-stricken provinces whose need of help is appalling. The governments are providing them with food, fuel and a limited amount of clothing, but with no income at all for the average period of five years they have been utterly unable to provide themselves with essential household replacements, and their condition in this regard is as desperate as though fire, flood or other catastrophe had destroyed their possessions.

The Premiers of the Prairie provinces have called upon the Red Cross to relieve the sufferings caused by lack of blankets and other forms of bedding, stove pipes, window glass and similar essentials. When the Red Cross have overtaken Canadian relief, the press of Canada has made the cause of their victims its own. The response by the Canadian people has been far beyond what was expected. The wholehearted support of the press that response would not have been forthcoming. That this occasion should be described as a disaster is made abundantly plain by the facts of the situation. With conditions as they are today in the drought areas, we feel that it is unnecessary to plead with you for your support. It is noteworthy that the first contribution to the "West-ern Drought Fund" was made by Mr. J. W. McConnell, of The Montreal Star, who sent in his cheque to $50,000.

With Winter already in the West, bedding and other household necessities must be supplied at once. The appeal must be made quickly and intensively.

Arion Club Opens Forty-Fifth Year With Good Support

Programme of Favorites From Past Concerts Presented by City's Oldest Male-Voice Choir at Empress Hotel Last Night

MUSICAL loyalties were never better demonstrated in Victoria than in the enthusiastic interest shown in the offerings of the Arion Club, which opened its forty-fifth season with a capacity house at the Empress Hotel last evening.

Entering its second season under the leadership of W. C. Fyfe, the club had a particularly strong bass-voice section and the selection of pieces seemed designed to show it to best advantage, although built from material heard at previous concerts.

The tone in the bass section was consistently round, resonant and full, and had the tenors at all times been able to balance it, the choir would have been singing at the top of its form. As it was, they gave obvious great pleasure with a programme that offered a fairly wide range of material. Among the best were the unaccompanied Brahms "Lullaby," as an encore for which was added, in remembrance of the late Mme. Schumann-Heink, a single voice hummed very softly.

Other special favorites included the bristly-sung opening selection, the vocal march, "Away! Away!" (Bracketed), which found the voices brisk, the tone energetic, and attack, diction and phrasing correspondingly good; Edwin Schulte's harp-and-piano accompanied "Forest Harp," which brought out good variety of tone, in the modulation of which Mr. Fyfe showed skill, and with Tom Kelway in good form for the one verse in which he took the solo part; "Simon the Cellarer," always a happy choice for male-voice choir; the humorous "Three Doughtie Men" (arranged by Humphries), where the basses supplied the mock-dramatic effects and the tenors the levity, and another serio-comic selection, "Jabberwocky" (Chadwick), which lost a little in humorous effect by being too consistently slow in tempo.

Other numbers were Pachel's "In the Moonlight," "Maretta," the cleverly-devised "In Vocal Combat," which makes harmony from the simultaneous singing by basses and tenors of Balfe's "Then You'll Remember Me" and Knight's "Rocked In the Cradle of the Deep"; the two Irish numbers, "Irish Folk Song" and the beautiful old ballad, "Believe Me, All Those Endearing Young Charms," which had some very beautiful legato work, and Mohr's "At the Altar of Truth." Harp solos at Arion Club concerts are a novelty. Mrs. Doris Helen Calkins, of Eugene, Oregon, played this instrument well, with a light, firm touch and sweet, resonant tone. In her first group she gave Jacques de la Presle's "Garden in the Rain," the very essence of poetry in its gentle yet gusty moods, and for her second group she played Bach's "Bourree," the "Volga Boat Song," which had delicate gradation of tone, and Hasselmann's "Valse de Concert."

Mr. George H. Peaker proved very able as the pianist-accompanist.

DUTCH INDIES RICH MARKET

R. P. Bower, Trade Commissioner, Says Country Has Great Possibilities

Netherlands East Indies was the richest tropical empire in the world, and the possibilities of that market were apparent in the 1929 trade figures, showing in that year the Indies imported—$177,000,000 worth of commodities, reported Richard P. Bower, former acting Canadian Trade Commissioner at Batavia, who was a visitor here yesterday.

With his wife and daughter, Barbara, he sailed last night aboard the Niagara for New Zealand to take up his new post as representative for Canada at Auckland.

Canada's leading export to the Netherlands East Indies in 1924 was the motor car, followed by sulphate of ammonia, automobile tires, newsprint and flour. Mr. Bower said. A great many smaller items of varying importance were sold to bring the total to more than $1,000,000.

While the area suffered considerably from the depression, the outlook now was more favorable than for some time past.

WORTH WATCHING
"The area is certainly worth watching, as is any country that could produce a total trade of $1,700,000,000 as did the territory in 1929," the commissioner added. The total value of the country's trade in 1935 amounted to $492,000,000, of which imports were valued at $182,300,000.

The fame of Java does not rest on its coffee," he explained, "but on its other products such as oil, tin, tobacco, rubber, tea and copra. Certain important items of international trade come almost exclusively from Netherlands India, for example, quinine to the extent of 90 per cent of world requirements; kapok, 80 per cent of total world figures and sisal, 60 per cent. Eighty per cent of the world's pepper production also came from that area."

Mr. Bower remarked that Java, with a population of 42,000,000, was the most densely populated land area in the world. One-third larger than Vancouver Island, it maintained on the average 843 persons to the square mile in comparison with Canada's three.

FIVE MEN BURNED IN EXPLOSION AND FIRE

He said the Cates No. 7 and another tug were alongside the wharf with two barges preparing to load oil at the time.

BURSTS INTO FLAMES
Suddenly there was a terrific blast and the cabin of the Cates No. 7 burst into flames, which quickly spread to the dock and dangerously near the oil pipes.

The men burned were apparently in the cabin of the tug when the blast occurred, the acting-superintendent said, and were burned before they could escape.

The fire on the dock was quickly extinguished with fire hoses, but the fire on the boat burned fiercely for about twenty minutes before it could be put out.

The burned men were taken to hospital in the company ambulance and private cars.

First of Colored Streamers Create Christmas Spirit

Real Christmas atmosphere came yesterday to Broad Street, between View and Yates Streets, when three streamers of colored lights and a large Neon star were strung high across the roadway.

This is the first section of the proposed illuminating system for the Yuletide season and in preparation for the Diamond Jubilee Celebrations here next August. Within the next several days streamers of green, yellow and red lights will be strung along Broad Street from View to Fort Streets, on Yates Street from Broad to Blanshard Streets, and the entire length of downtown Douglas Street.

Merchants on these streets are subscribing the funds to the programme, which is being carried out by the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce for the Diamond Jubilee Celebrations committee.

PASS RESOLUTION OF APPRECIATION

Congregation of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Thanks Rev. and Mrs. James Hyde

Appreciation of the work of Rev. and Mrs. James Hyde for the past two and a half years was expressed in a resolution passed by the congregation of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church last night. Members also pledged their continued support of the pastor and his wife during the next year.

A small deficit was shown in the financial statement up to the end of November, as presented by Walter Arnot, secretary. It was explained, however, that indications were that all obligations would be met by the end of the year.

It was decided to encourage the further use of duplex collection envelopes as a means to increasing collections. Other suggestions for raising more funds were also considered at the business meeting, under the chairmanship of George McCandless, clerk of session.

Prior to the business session, Mr. Hyde led in a devotional service and spoke on "What It Means to Be a Christian." At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served.

CANADIANS IN EASY TRIUMPH

Trounce Regents in Hoop Game—Gainers' Superiors And Bays Win.

Playing smart ball from start to finish, Sons of Canada, undefeated leaders of the Intermediate "A" boys' division of the Victoria and District Basketball League, increased their winning streak yesterday evening at the Victoria High School when they defeated the Regents, 49-20.

Gainers' Superiors walked through the Regents in a 38-12 score in the second game on the card. In the first game, the Regents, who had won a 25-19 triumph over Rays in a men's senior "C" encounter.

With Jackson, Price, Walker, Barber and Turner sharing the scoring honors, Sons of Canada had an easy time with the Regents. They piled up a 29-7 lead in the first half and added twenty points in the final stanza to their opponents' thirteen.

Parfitt and Patterson provided most of the scoring punch for the losers and between them caged eighteen of the twenty points.

EASY VICTORY
Setting up a 31-6 score in the opening session, Coach Axel Kinnear's Gainers' Superiors were always the better quietest in their fixture with the Regents. They ripped the opposing defence wide open and dropped home basket after basket in easy fashion.

Eleanor Peden topped the scoring brigade with eighteen points. She was closely followed by Mary Peden with sixteen and Lucille Parks with thirteen.

E. Snyder, C. Reid and V. Edwards, all with four points apiece, did the scoring for the Regents. Defeating Rays, 25-19, Hudson's Bay moved into sole occupancy of the leading berth in the men's senior "C" division. The winners gained their margin of victory in the initial period and were leading 13-7 at the breather. In the final half each quintette added twelve points.

Wally Stipe refereed, and the teams were: Rays—Price (3), Burden (2), Davies (6), Wright (4), Chambers, Hughes (2), Van Druten (2) and Morton. Total, 19.

Hudson's Bay—Riddle (2), Baker (6), Surden, Wilkinson (7), Renton.

GORD WALLACE WINS EASILY

Welterweight Champion in One-Sided Victory Over Henry Woods

VANCOUVER, Dec. 2 (AP)—Gordon Wallace, of Vancouver, scored a unanimous ten-round decision over Henry Woods, Yakima, Wash. negro, here tonight.

The Canadian welter champion weighed 146, Woods 138.

There were no knockdowns, but the Canadian staggered his dusky opponent twice, once in the second round and again in the ninth.

Wallace had an edge in the first two rounds with a jabbing left hand that kept Woods off balance, and a thumping left hook near the end of the round.

Woods captured the seventh round, connecting almost at will with hard lefts to the head, and held his advantage in the eighth.

Another cracking left hook staggered Woods again in the ninth, but he came back with both hands to the head and body near the end of the round.

Both battlers slugged wildly in the last frame, trying for a knock-out with honors about even.

Truman Kennedy, 136, now of Vancouver and formerly of Bellingham, Wash., took a three-way decision from Young Corpuz, 134-2, Seattle Filipino, in a fast six-round semi-final.

Edie Wise, 136, Calgary, and Julius Troll, 138-1-2, Vancouver, drew in one four-round preliminary, and, in another, Jimmy Chapman, 118-1-2, of Edmonton, and Jackie Pascoe, 124, Vancouver, battled to even terms.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

A PECULIAR ANALYSIS
I suppose I must thank the American half of my ancestry for a trait that is prevalent in these United States: a passion for debunking. Whenever I read provocative statements, particularly on the subject of contract bridge, I am irresistibly drawn into the facts with which I admit an implicit desire to spot a fallacy. Lately I have found the foreign press rich territory for looking. If I have seemed to take peculiar delight in pointing my shafts of derision at this has been solely because it has offered, virtually on a silver platter, such rich booty. Here is a hand that was "analyzed" in a British bridge magazine.

South, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

♥ K 10 8
♦ 5 4 3
♣ A Q 10 4 2

WEST
♠ J 3
♥ J 3
♦ K Q 9 8 7 6
♣ 7 6 5

EAST
♠ A K 5 4 2
♥ A 2
♦ A 2

SOUTH
♠ A K 10 8
♥ A Q 8 4
♦ 10
♣ K J 3

Exactly how a four heart contract was reached is not important. Over here a safer contract would be reached as follows:

South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
2 ♥ Pass 3 ♥ Pass (final bid)
4 ♥ Pass

By his failure to go ahead in hearts, even after North's raise, South would indicate his four card length and ask further confirmation of North's trump support. Not having four hearts, North would proceed with his actual four heart contract. West opened the diamond king. East overtook and returned the deuce. West won and played a third round. East discarded a club and declarer ruffed. Now a tight game. South was defeated.

Of course, South was defeated. South could not have made the contract if he had discarded a spade on the third diamond instead of ruffing it. West would continue with a fourth diamond. East throwing his second club whether or not dummy should ruff.

I found two phrases of the above particularly irritating. The first was "of course" the second "even" which implied that that would have been the correct play—I must disagree with both violently.

South certainly should ruff the third diamond, and of course can make the contract. After ruffing (and noting that West showed a six card diamond suit) South should lay down the ace and queen of trumps. The jack falling from West merely would confirm the correct decision to play against a 4-2 trump division with the greater length, of course, in the East hand, which did not hold six diamonds. After these trump leads declarer calmly should begin ruffing the club suit. East could ruff in whenever he chose. Whether he should return a trump or a spade, it would be an elementary matter to hold him to one trump trick.

Certainly this line of play cannot be attacked on the ground that it is "double dummy." Even without ham, wash, took a three-way decision from Young Corpuz, 134-2, Seattle Filipino, in a fast six-round semi-final.

Edie Wise, 136, Calgary, and Julius Troll, 138-1-2, Vancouver, drew in one four-round preliminary, and, in another, Jimmy Chapman, 118-1-2, of Edmonton, and Jackie Pascoe, 124, Vancouver, battled to even terms.

Reports ALL-BRAN Supplies This Dietary Adjunct

Scientific tests have shown that meals which miss the proper "bulk" tend to cause common constipation. This condition causes discomfort, and may lead to headaches, loss of appetite, even serious disease.

Avoid these faulty meals by adding Kellogg's ALL-BRAN to your menu. It supplies generous "bulk" in convenient form. This absorbs moisture, and gently exercises and cleanses the system. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and contains iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is often more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN may be served as a cereal with milk or cream. Sprinkle over soups, salads or other cereals. Or cook into appetizing muffins, breads, waffles, etc. It adds a delicious nut-sweet flavor to your recipes.

How much better than taking patent medicines—simply mix warm milk with ALL-BRAN and eat it with your meals. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

face. The general belief is that Bishop Blunt was really acting as spokesman for the leaders of the Church of England and that this sentence tucked in the middle of an address on the coronation service was meant to add a public hint of ecclesiastical disapproval.

Bishop Blunt, tonight issued a statement saying his speech had no connection with "the King's private life," but what he had "reference to was the fact that to all outward appearance the King seems to be entirely indifferent to the public practice of religion."

AUDIENCE WITH THE KING
Prime Minister Baldwin also, it is reported, is striving his hardest to persuade the King to terminate the friendship whereof exaggerated rumors have been bandied round the world. Following a meeting of the Cabinet, Mr. Baldwin had an hour's audience with the King at Buckingham Palace tonight.

The constitutional difficulties arise from the readiness or otherwise of the King to accept the advice of his ministers. It is an accepted principle of the British Constitution that the King acts on the advice of his ministers. They are then responsible. If he acts otherwise, then the King himself is responsible.

APPEALS FOR STATEMENT
LONDON, Dec. 3 (AP)—The Times appealed editorially today to King Edward for "some authoritative act or statement" to end once and for all rumors surrounding the Throne.

The newspaper asserted reports in America were doing infinite harm in the United States and the British Dominions.

Conceding the King was "entitled to his relaxation and companionship with chosen friends," The Times added:

"What we cannot and will not afford—what the nation and the Empire cannot afford—is that influence of the great office which he holds should be weakened if ever private inclination were to come into open conflict with public duty and allowed to prevail."

Weddings

ROGERS-BRENNER

In the presence of relatives and a few close friends, the marriage of Ella Florence, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Brenner, 182 Joseph Street, and Mr. Henry Alexander Rogers, of the Royal Canadian Navy, was solemnized yesterday at 1:30 o'clock in Fairfield United Church. Rev. J. Richmond Craig conducted the service, and Mr. Cecil Warren presided at the organ.

Mr. Brenner gave his daughter away, and she wore a charming frock of white silk net over tulle, with a long full skirt and a frilled jacket, and a veil of net arranged with a wreath of ruffled net and orange blossoms across the top of her head. Miss Margaret Claire Brenner was her sister's bridesmaid, in a frock of pale green tulle, and a white silk turban, and they both carried shower bouquets of white chrysanthemums and pink carnations. Five-year-old Velma Brenner, the bride's niece, was the junior attendant in a dainty frock of pale pink tulle, who wore a wreath of white flowers in her hair and carried a tiny bouquet of pink and white carnations. Mr. Leslie Englis was best man.

The bridal party were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Brenner after the ceremony, at their home, and a buffet luncheon was served from a table arranged with vases of pink carnations and centred with the wedding cake. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers left by the afternoon boat for a honeymoon in Seattle and Tacoma, and on their return, will make their home in Esquimalt. For traveling the bride chose a frock of rust-colored satin-back crepe and a light-fawn coat trimmed with beaver, and brown accessories.

RUNAWAY CARS CAUSE ANXIETY

Seven Break Loose on Grade—Derailment Saves Probable Disaster

DUNCAN, Dec. 2.—During switching operations at Mayo Mill, nine miles out of Duncan, shortly before 9:30 o'clock last night, seven runaway cars, loaded with lumber, got away on the Cowichan Lake branch line railway, and came thundering down the heavy grade towards Duncan and the main line of the E. & N. Railway. The train cars flashed past Hillcrest at high speed.

An urgent message was sent through to the Duncan office to have the runaway cars side-tracked at Hayward's Junction, but before this could be effected, the cars were derailed and four of them piled up with a terrific crash about a quarter of a mile west of the Island Highway crossing near the city waterworks dam. Had the cars not become derailed before reaching the highway and the main line, the result might easily have been very serious.

Excited citizens of the Gibbins Road district telephoned to friends in Duncan to learn the result of the crash.

SYNOPSIS

Arlen Leeds, a beautiful, sensitive girl of 21, leaves her rustic, Maryland, home after her father's marriage to a pretty blond-dancer only three years her senior. What increases Arlen's mood is knowing that her stepmother Karen is spending the money her infatuated father inherited from her mother. Arlen drives to Ocean City to "look up" after a week when Karen appears wearing her mother's pearls. Thinking Mrs. Leeds is a lawless, delinquent at Ocean City straightening out the affairs of her mother's business, Arlen is asked to return to her father's home, but she decides to stay in a frank manner that is almost hostile. Arlen knows that she is pretty and attractive, she knows that she has been hurt through her love of some heartless woman. Nevertheless she finds him an amusing companion, and his attitude towards her confidence. When she tells him of her father's foolish marriage and confidant at home, he suggests that he write to his sister Louise in New York, wife of Richard Brandon, head of several corporations. "I'll always settle her encumbrances muddled and her second husband," he says. "I'll always never have a social secretary, but needs one. Louise is enthusiastic, and she will pay Arlen 125 a week, adding that one of her duties will be attending her parties." "Tell Mrs. Leeds about Toby," Arlen reads from her letter. "I think she'll like him. Christa, when he stops reading, his voice falling away from her. Christa, who is unworthy of him. Henry goes on to New York and meets her. Arlen has a final talk with her father at Ruxton. At the Brandon penthouse apartment she meets Toby, her father's admirer, and Fanny, his mother. Arlen is dressed for too young for her years. Arlen likes Elissa Brand and from the first moment she has a final talk with her father at Ruxton. Arlen takes to strong drugs, and Elissa, a poor relation, quits her uncle and aunt and goes to school, too.

CHAPTER VI

Toby smiled with all the courage he could muster at his disappointment when he saw Elissa with Arlen. Why Elissa was here, sad-eyed and grave, gave him no concern at all. He smiled at Arlen's smiling red mouth, her dark eyes, and her young perfect grace.

"Hop in," he said. "I know a place where they have Hungarian music. Nothing warms my soul or stimulates my appetite like Hungarian music. How are all the little typewriters today? Do they crack become derailed before reaching the highway and the main line, the result might easily have been very serious.

With the melody of Hungarian music ringing in their ears, Toby asked, "Why so solemn, Elissa?" and turned to Arlen. "I have the afternoon off. So," and looked at her lovingly, "where to and why not, my darling?"

"I'm sorry, Toby, but I can't. I'm going with Elissa."

Elissa watched the smoke ascending from her cigarette.

"I've left home, Toby, cleared out for good. Arlen is going with me while I try to find a job."

"No," he said. "You mean—"

"Just that," Elissa answered.

"But why," he frowned, "should anyone who knows Richard look for a job?"

She smiled. "Epitaph for Richard—He who keeps parasites. Thank you, no, Toby. My friends after today

Elissa was gone fully half an hour. Arlen shifted from one tired foot to the other. The bright sun of the afternoon had paled, throwing dark shadows between buildings. Women hurried by on teetering little heels, wearing the latest time that season. With the feeling of autumn in the chilly twilight air, Arlen thought of the house in Ruxton. Soon the little cedar business would be closed with business. The leaves, a blend of yellow and red, would scatter over the lawn. To think of it was to experience keen nostalgia, not for the two unsuited people who lived there, but for the grey stone house itself. It would be the first winter of her life away from it.

She felt Elissa's excited breath against her face. She seemed almost to be dancing on the bus street.

"Arlen, they took me! I'm going to work from one until six for fifteen dollars a week. Oh, isn't it marvelous? And when I told them I'd finish business school in six weeks, they said I could work in the office in the morning and in the shop in the afternoon! For twenty-five dollars a week! It makes me feel rich. There is a Santa Claus!"

Riding atop a Fifth Avenue bus, Elissa said, "I'm going home for the first time in my life. My home. It's only a tiny room that looks out on dingy roofs, but it's mine, every inch of it. Arlen, my dear, don't mind my rambling. I've found a lovely afternoon for you when you could have been with Toby. You'll come to see me, won't you? Renny will come. Toby will come. I'm so happy I could shout."

At Fifty-Seventh Street she waved good-bye to Arlen, looked up with shining eyes, and was lost in the six o'clock mob.

Through nothing was said, Arlen knew she bore the brunt of Elissa's leaving home. She felt entirely blameless. That night she heard Louise talking over the telephone to Fanny. "Richard and I stopped in to see Aunt Grace and Uncle Reggie and they were perfectly furious. They were sure that somebody had put the idea into Elissa's head. Arlen? Now, wait, Fanny—I'm sure Arlen had nothing to do with it. Renny? What will he say? Why should he care? He has enough on his mind as it is. Mother half ill, and Allison, and not knowing what Christa is going to do. But I simply refuse to worry about it." It went on indefinitely and Arlen fell asleep, dreaming a fantastic dream in which Renny and Elissa were idyllically connected with the hooks and crooks of shorthand.

The following afternoon while she was working in Richard's audit telephone rang. At the sound of the familiar voice that seemed incredibly near, her hand tightly clasped the pen she was holding. "Arlen?" said Renny. "I know it is. Are you working up a budget to curb Louise's extravagance? How are you?"

"I'm fine," she said, conquering pure delight in her voice. "I go to business school in the morning and I'm stopping with Louise in the afternoon and we stop in at places and have tea."

"How did you know?"

"And in the evenings you go out with Toby?"

Fanny writes to mother. You have her worried. These women and their gossip! There was a wire from Louise this morning saying that Elissa had pulled up stakes. Nothing exciting like that happens in the family when I'm in New York."

"Arlen put both hands on the telephone and asked in a steady voice, 'How is your little girl, Renny?'

He hesitated. She could visualize him in a large room in a country house. Renny in tweeds, his face more tanned, his pipe between his teeth. 'She hated herself' after the question was asked.

"Of course, you were told," he said finally. "I didn't run away to keep from telling you. I thought if Elissa told you, you would get an unbiased opinion. Arlen is fine. I'm going to bring her to see you and I hope you'll be friends. Don't worry," he said, "about the family entanglements. They're frequent. Tell Elissa that I'm coming to see her. Will you keep a few evenings open for me, Arlen? I know that Toby is a persistent fellow."

Her voice had a forced lightness. "I shall even break a date with Toby to give you one. Do you want me to tell Louise anything?"

Renny laughed. "I did not call Louise, my dear. I called you."

An evening with Renny, she thought, when he said good-bye, was madness to think of it. It would not be gay as this evening with Renny would be. Why was it that love crowded out companionship and friendship? It should not.

Fanny came to dinner that evening, looking more than ever like a painted mummy. She was a youthful gothic with deep decolletage and several strands of pearls lay against her wrinkled throat. Her mouth was cherry-red. Each wave of her white hair lay perfectly against her small white head. Several diamond bracelets caught the light of the flickering candles and glittered brilliantly.

"It looks as though our little circle is narrowing," she said, "with Elissa gone. Bohemian and Toby and Arlen going off to themselves. The Alberts are having people in tonight. Louise. Let's stop in there. I insist that New York is positively stagnating."

Louise asked, "Where are you and Toby going, Arlen?"

Richard interrupted. "That isn't fair, Louise."

Arlen said, "I really don't know." She ignored Fanny's complaint and said, "Renny called this afternoon."

"What for?" Louise asked quickly. "Is anything wrong with mother or Allison?"

Renny didn't call you," said Fanny, who sweetly asked the first Renny, and such a darling, too! I think that Christa will be coming back soon. Of course, they'll get together again. There's no doubt about that. Christa has been having a good time and so has Renny. She is so lovely."

"And so heartless and selfish," said Richard.

"Fanny," said Louise, "you know that Richard can't bear to have her name mentioned. He adores Renny."

"If he takes her back, he's a fool," said Richard.

"Then a fool he'll be," said Fanny, who sweetly asked the first Renny, and such a darling, too! I think that Christa will be coming back soon. Of course, they'll get together again. There's no doubt about that. Christa has been having a good time and so has Renny. She is so lovely."

"After she closed the door, Arlen heard Renny's name again and again. Fanny's voice was nerve-racking in its shrillness. Arlen stood still in the middle of the room and pressed her hands to her hot cheeks. How Renny would hate having his personal affairs flung back at him, and across a dinner-table! Fanny realized it.

She knows I love him," Arlen thought. "Women of her type know everything."

She put on a gown of silver that had been bought in New York while the graduating class at the Naval Academy. She put her toes in high-heeled slippers of silver. She brushed her hair and pressed the waves in close and sheltered her perfume behind her ears and on her hands. On the shoulder of the dress she pinned a pale flame of an orchid that Toby had sent, picked up her evening coat, and went in the drawing room.

No one was there except Toby, looking very handsome. When he came toward her she had a feeling that he was going to kiss her. How long, he wondered, could she stand him off? How long would it be before he would take her in his arms and kiss her into forgetting Renny—kiss her into loving him?

Sammy Jay's Message to Old Man Coyote
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

While Farmer Brown's Boy was doing a lot of hard thinking about those traps he had set for Old Man Coyote, Sammy Jay was calling on Old Man Coyote. Yes, sir, Sammy was calling on Old Man Coyote. You see, he had been sent with a message from the little people of the Smiling Pool and the Green Meadows. The message was a vote of thanks to Old Man Coyote for leading Bowser into a trap and so teaching Farmer Brown's Boy a lesson. You see, they all felt, what was really true, that Farmer Brown's Boy would almost rather have been caught himself than to have had Bowser caught.

Sammy found Old Man Coyote at home, and what do you suppose he was doing? He was digging out and uncovering every one of the traps that Farmer Brown's Boy had set so carefully. And as he worked he growled and grumbled to himself, for those traps made him very angry. Sammy stopped to listen, a very impolite thing to do, and he grumbled as he heard Old Man Coyote say all kinds of unpleasant things about Farmer Brown's Boy. You know, Sammy is always willing to believe the worst of any one. When Old Man Coyote looked up and saw Sammy, he snarled at him. You know, no one likes to be overheard talking to himself, especially when saying unpleasant things.

"Good morning, Mr. Coyote," said he. Sammy pretended that he had just arrived and that he didn't notice Old Man Coyote's bad temper. "Good morning, Mr. Coyote," said he, making a grand bow and speaking as pleasantly as he knew how. "I have the honor to bring you a message from the little people of the Green Meadows—and the Smiling Pool."

Old Man Coyote picked up his ears and grunted. "What's worrying you?" he demanded. "You can go straight back and tell them that I like the Green Meadows and that I intend to stay here. If they don't like it, they can go themselves."

"You see," he knew very well that he was the most feared of all the little people living in the Green Meadows, and that no one had any love for him. "You've guessed wrong this time," chuckled Sammy. "You've guessed wrong this time, Mr. Coyote. It's a vote of thanks."

"What?" exclaimed Old Man Coyote, looking very foolish and very much as if he thought Sammy Jay was making fun of him. Probably this was the first time in all his life that he had ever been thanked for anything, and it gave him a queer feeling.

"I said it's a vote of thanks," replied Sammy.

"What for?" asked Old Man Coyote, gruffly, and looking very much puzzled.

For leading Bowser the Hound into a trap and so teaching him and his master what dreadful things traps are," replied Sammy.

"Pooch, that's nothing," said Old Man Coyote. "I guess that silly dog has learned a lesson, but that doesn't look as if his master has done it." He pointed to the traps he had just uncovered.

Sammy scratched his head thoughtfully. "No-o," said he slowly. "No-o, I can't say that it does. What a pity it is that some one doesn't trap him. Then you people wouldn't have to worry. I'm glad I live in trees and not on the ground. I don't have to worry about traps."

"Do you notice that I am doing much worrying?" grumbled Old Man Coyote. "Traps don't bother me. It will take someone smarter than Farmer Brown's Boy to set a trap that will catch me."

Sammy looked at Old Man Coyote in admiration, for it was very plain to see that he was not bragging. He was just stating a fact.

"Oh, how smart you are!" exclaimed Sammy. "I've always said that you were the smartest person I

MARINE, RAIL and AIR

Internal Disruption Is Seen in Open Break Among Longshoremen

Bridges Accuses Ryan of Strike-Breaking—Eastern Leader Claims It Was Stated There Would Be No Sympathetic Walkout

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2 (AP).—The open break between East and West longshoremen's leaders showed signs tonight of drawing the maritime strike toward an internal crisis. At the same time a Federal official expressed a belief legislation would come before the next session of Congress to forestall future shipping tie-ups.

All hands watched the port of New York for indications as to how far the Eastern stevedores would go in working ships declared "unfair" by Western longshoremen.

Harry Bridges, militant president of the Pacific Coast International Longshoremen's Association, pressed his campaign for inland support of the strike and gained at least one helping hand after accusing Joseph P. Ryan, I.L.A. president, of strike breaking.

TO PREVENT STRIKES
Meanwhile, Edward P. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, in a Portland, Ore., statement, expressed his belief legislation would be introduced to prevent future shipping strikes such as that which has paralyzed maritime activity on the United States Pacific Coast and threatens other American ports with the same fate.

Bridges accused Ryan of breaking a pledge that Eastern longshoremen would support the Westerners in the strike, but the Easterners have continued to work ships.

Ryan retorted that all Eastern I.L.A. representatives "definitely" stated to representatives from the Pacific Coast that under no circumstances would they agree to a sympathetic strike.

RETALIATORY MOVE
Complicating the situation, non-striking Eastern longshoremen refused to work cargo on the French liner Champlain. This was a retaliatory move against French longshoremen who in sympathy with an "irregular" strike of New York seamen refused to unload American ships in France.

The San Francisco Labor Council reiterated its support of the maritime walkout in a resolution charging the "big three" Western shipping companies—Dollar, Matson and American Hawaiian—with responsibility for the long deadlock.

Government-chartered steamer Arctic was due in Seattle from San Francisco tonight to load emergency supplies for Alaska. The Bureau of Indian Affairs ship was being loaded at Seattle for a quick dash to Southern Alaska with badly needed supplies.

Harold Gatty, Famous Flyer, Passed Through Victoria Last Night

Harold Gatty, who has been making flying history since he and Harold Bromley made their spectacular attempt to fly the North Pacific from Japan, was an outgoing passenger on the Canadian-Australian liner Ss. Niagara, sailing from Victoria last evening. His most noted achievement was his eight-day flight around the world with the late Wiley Post, when he made such a brilliant job of navigating.

The Australian flyer stated he was going to Sydney in the interests of the Douglas Aircraft Corporation.

Represents Philippines at Washington

—Photograph by Associated Screen News.

Commissioner of the Philippines to the United States, Hon. Quinton Paredes, accompanied by his daughter, Miss E. Paredes, reached Victoria yesterday morning aboard the Canadian Pacific Ss. Empress of Canada. Formerly Speaker of the Philippine Assembly, Mr. Paredes will be located at Washington indefinitely. To newspapermen who interviewed him here, he stated the islands were fairly prosperous just now, with everyone looking forward to the day when the Philippines would attain full independence. The Provisional Government was one year old now, and there is no reason to assume, he intimated, that the country will not be in a position to carry on when the time comes to take over. Tariffs would undoubtedly give the Government some revenue, he stated, and the United States would be repatriate any or all of the 60,000 Filipinos in the United States, brought responses from only some 600. Relations with other countries were friendly, Mr. Paredes said.

There have been a number of Douglas transport planes purchased and contracted for "down under." He said his services were about equally divided between Pan-American Airways and the Douglas company at present.

Gatty stated he had talked with Bromley in San Francisco on Monday last. After flying for several years with a mining company in the South, the former Victorian is now an inspector with the United States Aviation Bureau. It was the first time he had seen Bromley, he said, since they parted in Japan after the cooling of their plane had opened up when several hundred miles out on the North Pacific.

Leaving San Francisco on Tuesday by plane in order to catch the Niagara at Vancouver, for hailed his flight at Eugene, Oregon, causing him and several other passengers seeking to join the liner to hire a taxi. Tuesday night, all through the night, from 8 o'clock, the motor car pushed on, reaching the ship-side at 9:35 a.m. yesterday, five minutes before the liner was due to sail. The ship, held for United States mail passengers, baggage and last-minute cargo, did not get away until after the noon hour, however.

Gatty who landed in Oakland on Wednesday, November 25, aboard the China Clipper, had hurried to California for a conference with Pan-American Airways officials.

VANCOUVER, Dec. 2 (AP).—The Mt. Tarquin, a sixty-foot passenger boat just completed at the shipyards of the Boeing Aircraft Company, Ltd., left here today for Harrison Lake, seventy-five miles up the Fraser River, where it will be put in service.

The vessel is fitted for winter travel and will carry a store of supplies for loggers and miners at isolated points on the lake shore.

Princess Louise Will Sail North On Special Trip

Princess Louise will make a special sailing from Vancouver to Skagway and return, sailing from Pier D, Vancouver, at 9 p.m. tomorrow. The Canadian Pacific Railway announced yesterday.

She will call northbound and southbound at Alert Bay, Prince Rupert, Ketchikan, Wrangell and Juneau. Many passengers stranded in Alaska ports are expected to fill the coastwise steamer on the southbound trip, and she is heavily booked with cargo for the northbound voyage.

NO PLEASURE FOR CHINESE

American Mail Line Liable For Heavy Fine If Men Get Ashore

SEATTLE, Dec. 2 (AP).—A moody band of 180 Chinese—worth $1,000 apiece to the American Mail Line—fished for sharks from port holes of three passenger liners at Smith Cove's Pier 41 today, while they continued their enforced vacation without shore leave.

The liners are the strike-bound President Jefferson, President Jackson and the President Grant.

The Chinese are cabin boys and waiters on the vessels, interned aboard the ships because of immigration laws which bar them from shore leave.

The Chinese are closely watched by company guards, because if one escapes it means a $1,000 fine assessed against the ship.

What to do during the long days and nights of the strike has presented a problem to the Orientals. Tiring of Chinese games, some have rigged up poles and lines and fished for shiners through port holes.

The other day a Chinese aboard the Jackson caught a mud shark. It was gaffed aboard and the shipmates had a touch of variety added to their fare—soup of shark fins, a Chinese delicacy.

NOTICE TO MARINERS
Mariners are advised that the unlighted buoy marked Governor Rock, Trincomali Channel, is reported out of position. This will be replaced as soon as possible.

Agent, Dept. of Transport.

SOUTHBOUND LINER AWAY

Niagara Sailed for Sydney And Other Ports Last Night With Full List

Sailing for Sydney via way ports the Canadian-Australian Ss. Niagara, Captain William Martin, commander, got away from Rihet Pier at 8 o'clock last evening with every cabin aboard taken. There were in all about 500 travelers in all classes. A large number of passengers joined the liner here on her arrival from Vancouver at 6:30 o'clock.

Included among the travelers for Honolulu were twenty-four members of the Bremerton High School football squad, who will play against McKinley High School in the Hawaiian city in exhibition games, and some forty-five players and supporters from the San Jose State College, San Jose, who are scheduled to meet the University of Hawaii football team in a series of exhibitions at Honolulu.

Traveling with the Bremerton team are W. L. Jesup, editor of The Bremerton News-Searchlight; Harold Shidley, coach, formerly University of Washington football star; and Theodore Peterson, school board chairman of Bremerton.

OTHERS ABOARD
In addition to the football players embarking here, among others, were J. G. Frost, for Honolulu; Leslie C. Finley, also for Honolulu; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Blundell, for Auckland; Mrs. H. Hutchison and Miss B. Hutchison, also for Auckland; Miss D. Henslow, for Sydney; Mrs. K. M. Case, for Honolulu; J. M. Barr, for Auckland; and A. G. Munro, for Hawaii.

Other prominent passengers going out on the Niagara were Hon. P. Keith, deputy minister of public works, Alberta; Bill Brewster, of the well-known Banff family; and H. P. Walters, of Walters Ace Company, Hull.

PACIFIC SHIPPER
From the United Kingdom by way of Panama and California, the Furness Line Ss. Pacific Shipper, was to dock alongside Rihet Pier at 7 o'clock this morning, according to King Brothers, local agents for the line. The Shipper has cargo for discharge here, and will commence unloading at 8 a.m.

A Face Covered With Pimples Causes Much Embarrassment

There is little doubt but that impure and impoverished blood is the soil on which these red, white, pus-filled pimples develop and thrive, and that melting short of a vigorous, persistent blood purifying treatment will eradicate them from the system.

DRYDOCK SINKS IN COAL HARBOR
Unknown Cause Sends $15,000 Worth of Floating Equipment To Bottom

VANCOUVER, Dec. 2 (AP)—A $15,000 floating drydock in Coal Harbor, owned by Boeing Aircraft of Canada, Ltd., sank from an unknown cause early today and now lies in about fifteen feet of water.

A Diesel, post, the Alpaca, seventy feet long, floated off the dock as it sank. The boat was under repair and pumps were put to work when it began to take water.

Dr. Thomas Lane Connolly, of the British Columbia Coast Mission hospital, ship, Florida V. (formerly the John Anker), was awakened by the sound of the sinking dock and shifted his vessel to safety.

AMUSEMENTS
On the Screen
Atlas—Fredric March, starred in "Anthony Adverse."
Capitol—Libeled Lady, starring Katharine Hepburn, Myrna Loy, William Powell, Jean Harlow, Spencer Tracy.
Columbia—Gene Autry in "The Singing Cowboy."
Dominion—"A Woman Rebels" with Katharine Hepburn.
Oak Bay—Freddie Bartholomew as "Little Lord Fauntleroy."
Plaza—"The Green Pastures" with Rex Ingram.

It is not always that an author is satisfied with the screen version of his drama. But Marc Connelly not only is satisfied, but more than pleased with the picturization of his Pulitzer Prize play, "The Green Pastures," which comes to the Plaza Theatre today. He thinks it greater than the stage production.

Mr. Connelly not only wrote the play—suggested to him by Roark Bradford's novel, but he was co-director of the picture with William Kelshley and collaborated with Sheridan Gibney on the screen play.

In speaking about the picture, Mr. Connelly said:

"I am greatly pleased with the transformation of 'The Green Pastures' from stage to screen. The best thing about it is that we have retained its complete simplicity, and simplicity is the quality that made the stage play a success."

NOTED STORY ON SCREEN AT ATLAS
"Anthony Adverse," Hervey Allen's Classic, Appears as Featured Picture

The record for number of miles to a gallon of gas is always a moot question. The greatest number of miles to a reel without debate, goes to "Anthony Adverse," the Warner Bros. picture, which comes to the Atlas Theatre today, with Fredric March in the stellar role.

The much traveled hero of the Hervey Allen classic travels 24,000 miles.

The picture opens in France, where Anthony is born, and the youngsters first trip is to the Tyrol, thence to Livorno. When he grows up, he leaves for Cuba, whence he strikes out for Africa. His next jump is to Paris and his final jaunt to far away America.

CAPITOL Love blooms in the theatre headlines and libel sprouts in court in "Libeled Lady," new MGM hit, with a tremendous all-star cast, featuring Jean Harlow, William Powell, Myrna Loy, Spencer Tracy, Katharine Hepburn, Herbert Marshall, Guy Kibbee, Mickey Rooney, Henry Stephenson, E. E. Cline, Una O'Connor, Jackie Searl, Ivan Simpson, Jessie Ralph, Constance Collier and others.

Oak Bay Offers Charming Film
Freddie Bartholomew and Dolores Costello Barrymore are co-stars in "Little Lord Fauntleroy," which shows for the last time today at the Dominion Theatre. This is the first time Miss Hepburn, and Mr. Marshall have played opposite each other. They are supported by outstanding and versatile cast, including Elizabeth Allan, Donald Crisp, David Manners and Doris Dudley, young New York actress who makes her screen debut.

Columbia Offers Western Picture
Newest musical instrument to be created is the "Jass-ack-o-phone," originated by Smiley Burnette, popular screen, burlesque comedian and musician, who offers it as a portable "pipe organ."

The novel instrument and its strange melodies are to be seen and heard in "The Singing Cowboy," Republic's spirited Gene Autry musical western picture, which starts a three-day run at the Columbia Theatre today.

A pair of bellows-boxes, mounted on a donkey, compose the foundation of Burnette's creation. Atop the sound boxes is an odd array of whistles and horns of varying styles and sizes. By blowing through a reed tube into the sound boxes, and fingering the keys of the horns and stops of the sound boxes, Burnette sets a weird rhythm that contributes a delicious comedy bit to the picture.

DANCE PROGRAMME AT EMPIRE SHORTLY
A double bill combining ballet and Cuban dancers will be offered to Victoria dance lovers on December 14 at the Empire Theatre at a matinee and evening performance.

The first half of the programme will be by the four "Principal Dancers of the Russian Ballet Royale," the second half by the "Cuban Folies," which have made a hit recently in Chicago.

The "Cuban Folies" will offer a varied programme, and the company includes Ruman's Cuban orchestra and a chorus of eighteen beauties.

PROBLEM OF TALL MASTS
Height of Golden Gate Bridge Provides Something to Worry About

What to do with the Empress of Britain's masts when the big flagship of the Canadian Pacific fleet passes into San Francisco harbor on her world cruise, April 29?

San Francisco harbor interests and the Canadian Pacific head offices in Montreal already have been engaging in considerable correspondence on the matter of getting the biggest ship that calls into the port under the new Golden Gate bridge.

"Britain's" masts measure 218 feet when the 42,500-ton liner is loaded to twenty-eight feet, the draft expected when she approaches the harbor in April, and the bridge built 220 feet clearance at mean high water, allowing a scant two-foot margin of safety.

This would be enough under ordinary conditions but by April 29 the safety nets used in connection with work still under way, will still be in use, reducing the clearance under the span by another fifteen feet, or leaving the "Britain's" masts thirteen feet too high. The nets, of Manila rope, sag fifteen feet only when dry. In wet weather they tighten up several feet.

The solution, according to officials of the Hydrographic office in the California port, would be to have the Empress of Britain lower her topmasts before passing under the span. Masts are usually built in two sections and are telescopic, the topmast lowering inside the bottom section.

To the Canadian Pacific's original suggestion that the safety nets be raised in one section to permit the cruise ship's passage. In and out of the harbor, San Francisco authorities have raised the objection that the resulting clearance would be necessarily small and it would be difficult to manoeuvre the ship safely through the narrow opening, particularly as the ship, on a world cruise and lightly loaded as to cargo, would be higher in the water than twenty-eight feet.

Whatever the solution, there has been no suggestion that the ship will not enter San Francisco, where many Pacific Coast people, including British Columbians, expect to join her for passage to Havana, Canal ports or Southampton.

OF INTEREST HERE
The difficulty of clearance in San Francisco for a ship of the Empress of Britain's size is of particular interest in Victoria, however, in view of plans for construction of the

NAME OFFICERS FOR NEW YEAR
Miss Josephine Crease Is Vice-President of Arts and Crafts Society

Deciding against electing a president until a later date, members of the Island Arts and Crafts Society named Miss Josephine Crease vice-president at their annual election of officers last night in the Metropolitan Building.

C. F. Barker, retiring president, declined nomination for the forthcoming year, saying he would probably be away from the city for some time. He was thanked for his leadership during the past year.

Miss Grace Tuckey was elected secretary, with Lorne Ritchie as assistant secretary. Cyril Condon was chosen as treasurer.

MADE PROGRESS
Those named to the executive committee were Mr. Barker, Miss B. Grimson, Mrs. Rose Willis, Mrs. S. M. Hobbs, Mrs. A. L. Adamson, Mrs. Edith Austen and Miss M. E. Robinson. Those selected for the advisory board were D. S. Cameron, Mrs. W. H. Ronald and Miss M. Lettice.

Reports of officers showed the society made satisfactory progress during the year. S. M. Hobbs, secretary, said the children's classes had accomplished much during last winter under the guidance of Mr. Barker.

A pastel portrait of D. S. Cameron, former president, was presented to the society by the artist, Miss Adeline Baxter.

The society last night opened its Christmas sale of hand-painted cards, pictures, paintings, pottery and other work. It will continue until Saturday night in the society's headquarters, Metropolitan Building.

QUICK ENDING; FEWER SCARS
Application of Reason and Common Sense Should Settle Strike

SEATTLE, Dec. 2 (AP)—Edward P. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, arriving here tonight by airplane from Portland, said he saw "no reason why the maritime strike should not be settled within a week or ten days at the outside."

McGrady, the Government's representative in attempting to settle the Pacific Coast maritime strike, came for conferences with the Northwest strike committee, civic leaders and shipowners' representatives.

"It's got to end some time and we might just as well apply reason and common sense and end it now," McGrady said. "A quick ending will leave fewer scars."

The negotiator, however, did not within the time he said it should; but offered a solution he hoped would be acceptable to both sides.

SEMI-FINALS REACHED IN CITY BADMINTON MEET

St. Louis Cards Sell Davis and Gelbert to Reds

Infielder and Catcher Go to Cincinnati, but "Dizzy" Dean Remains With Club So Far—Ethan Allen Joins Browns—Boston Bees Also After Dean—Junior Circuit Wants Series money talk by Cincinnati and the New York Giants, infielder Gelbert and the veteran Davis were sold to the Reds in a straight cash transaction.

The deal was easily the highlight of a day of furious rumor and little business, which included the sale by the Chicago Cubs of the veteran outfielder, Ethan Allen, to the St. Louis Cardinals. The Boston Red Sox, who had been expected to acquire Allen, signed up catcher Johnny Peacock, who was lost to Cincinnati by a free agency ruling. With $200,000 which Peacock brought in his own pocket.

TERRY MISSES TRAIN

Developments in the Dizzy Dean deal were stalled today because of the tardiness of Manager Bill Terry of the Giants. Memphis Bill missed his train to Montreal last night and the Giant delegation went on ahead without him. President Horace Stoneham was pretty much peeved with his manager for his inability to catch trains and didn't care who knew it.

As the Giants talked about getting the great "Dizzy" and Branch Rickey, general manager, and David Harum, of the Cardinals, frisked about with many different rumors of the set-up. General Manager Warren Giles, of Cincinnati, began to give up hope of landing the loquacious Dean.

"Branch wants a whole ball club and won't listen to money," muttered Giles. "I don't think we'll get him now. Maybe New York will."

BEES AFTER DEAN

"We'd like to get 'Diz' too," chimed in Bob Quinn, of the Boston Bees, "but not for what Rickey is asking. Say, no pitcher, not even Dean, is worth two good ball players who can play in 154 games and play them well. A good pitcher can win twenty-five games, but the good infielders or outfielders can win sixty."

All major league clubs were represented at the Philadelphia Athletic Council Mack flushed with money and not worried about the big, bad wolf, stayed home.

Manager Joe McCarthy, of the Yankees, went into a few minutes, and then took a night train for Buffalo.

"Nice bunch of fellows here," said Joe. "But I'm going home."

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES.

By ALEX MORRISON

Many strokes are lost by letting your ball drop in the ground short of the green, particularly when that ground is uneven or covered with long grass.

By long grass I don't mean the length to be found on the fairway. Obviously it would be wise to pitch over this but there is a way of mowing that causes the grass to remain quite long without standing up.

When a ball lands in this it invariably kicks off line. If this doesn't happen it may be held up and come to rest under short of the spot at which you aimed.

To avoid this use a club with more loft. Many of the pros use a No. 8 for shots of this kind and pitch well into the green. In this they stand little chance of going over because the extremely lofted club assures them of considerable backspin.

The ball doesn't fly very high and bounces very little. As a rule it begins to trickle along after one bounce. If you make use of this shot, you'll save many strokes.

STEWART AND MCINTYRE IN FEATURE BOUT

Heavyweight Wrestlers Will Show Saturday at Tillamook Gymnasium

Bobby Stewart, husky logger who gave up the big outdoors to throw around pachyderms in the squared circle, will make his Victoria debut Saturday evening at the Tillamook gymnasium when he shows in the main event of the weekly grappling show.

Promoter Fred Richardson, local wrestling impresario, yesterday signed Stewart to meet Donald McIntyre, the pride of Glasgow, in the eight ten-minute round top bout of an all-heavyweight card.

McIntyre, sturdy Scot with powerful legs and a good flying tackle, is a favorite with Victoria followers of the grunting and groaning pastime. He has made many appearances here and has yet to lose a match. He specializes on a punishing head scissors to get his opponents groggy and then follows up with tactics, and it usually means curtains.

Stewart is reported to be a rugged, husky matman, who dishes out plenty of rough tactics. He has had a number of bouts on the coast with some of the leading heavyweights, and should make a good showing against McIntyre.

In addition to the main event there will be a six-round semi-wind-up and a special event. The usual local preliminary will open the show at 8:45 o'clock.

Aldershot Triumphs

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Aldershot Services down Portsmouth Services, 2-1, in an English Rugby Union match today. In county championship games Kent defeated Middlesex, 6-3, at Blackheath, and player now valuable to his team and an outstanding sportsman.

The title was a scrappy affair, with the Welsh centre forward, scoring in front of goal. Establishing a lead early in the first half, Wales adopted defensive measures, and most of the time had little difficulty holding the opposing quarter.

The game slowed down. Scotland attacked spasmodically, while Wales played a defensive game to protect its one-goal lead. Tommy Walker finally put his team on even terms after Gray had only partially cleared a header from McCulloch.

Glover finally put Wales ahead, sending a first-time drive into the corner of the net from eight yards out. Wales had no difficulty holding the lead until the end.

Dominion Loses Only Big League Star

Canada lost her claim to her only major league baseball player, when George Selkirk, Yankee outfielder, who was born in Huntsville, Ont., became a fully naturalized citizen of United States. Here is George Selkirk, who had just completed a trip into New Brunswick, Moose hunting. He came out of the world series as one of the heroes, and Twinkletons promises to be a pretty good ball player next year, even if he isn't a Canadian any more.

Wales Surprises In Victory Over Scottish Eleven

Comes Through With 2-1 Triumph Over Scotland In International Match at Dundee—Has Good Chance to Win Honors—Glover Nets Both Goals—Walker Scores for Losers

DUNDEE, Scotland, Dec. 2 (AP)—Wales has a good opportunity to win the international football tournament this year as a result of a 2-1 triumph over Scotland here today. The Welsh need only a draw against Ireland in March to clinch the title, as they defeated England early in the season. England and Scotland won their games with Ireland.

Wales' ninth success against the Scots today was tinged with luck, as their opponents played most of the first half without M. J. Ansell, Newcastle United back, injured soon after the start of the game. The Scots rearranged their line-up after the change of ends, Ansell going on the left wing, but he limped badly for the remainder of the game.

E. M. Glover, Grimsby Town's versatile centre forward, scored in each half for the winners. Wales pressed the Scottish defence, and Dawson saved several shots. Walker hit the post in a breakaway, but it was only a flash and Wales again attacked.

SECOND HALF
Lumping badly, Ansell went to outside-left when play was resumed and the Scots rearranged their line-up. They attacked dangerously right at the start, and Duncan was about to shoot when Gray made a brilliant clearance, diving in front of the net. Glover took the ball off his toe.

The game slowed down. Scotland attacked spasmodically, while Wales played a defensive game to protect its one-goal lead. Tommy Walker finally put his team on even terms after Gray had only partially cleared a header from McCulloch.

Glover finally put Wales ahead, sending a first-time drive into the corner of the net from eight yards out. Wales had no difficulty holding the lead until the end.

Scotland—Goal, Dawson (Rangers); backs, Anderson (Hearts), Ansell (Newcastle United); half-backs, Macle (Aston Villa), Simpson, Brown (Rangers); forwards, Munro, Walker (Hearts), McCulloch (Brentford), Mills (Aberdeen), Duncan (Derby County).

MIXED CHAMPIONS ELIMINATED AFTER THREE-SET TUSSLE

Joyce Thomson and Drennan Hinks Dethroned By Miss M. Hughes and Ralph Bagley as Play Continues in Championship Tournament At Willows—Singles Champs Advance

Staging one of the most spectacular uphills battles ever witnessed in the city badminton championships, Miss M. Hughes and Ralph Bagley, Willows Club shuttlers, yesterday evening defeated Miss Joyce Thomson and Drennan Hinks, Brentwood combination and defending mixed doubles champions, in the quarter-finals of the annual title meet at the Willows courts.

Picked by close followers of the game to retain their crown, the former titleholders passed out of the championship picture in dramatic fashion. Leading 12-0 in the third and final set, Miss Thomson and Hinks were unable to fight off the strong challenge of Miss Hughes and Bagley and finally lost the set and their chance of retaining the title. The scores were 15-7, 8-15, 18-14.

The only other upset in the evening's play also came in the mixed doubles, where Mrs. MacDonald and D. Davis eliminated Miss G. McCall and Reg Corfield in a two-set fixture. The scores were 15-12, 15-6.

Play has advanced to the semi-finals in all divisions, and tonight's fixtures should provide followers of the shuttle game with some excellent badminton.

While the mixed doubles champions found the road to another title to hard to travel, all other defending monarchs advanced with comparative ease.

CHAMPIONS ADVANCE
Miss Joyce Thomson, attractive young Brentwood netter and women's singles titleholder, and George Lane, dark-haired Victoria Club player and ruler of the men's singles division, are still passengers in the winning van. They play tonight and are favored to gain the select bracket.

Miss Thomson will meet Miss Murdoch, a clubmate, in one bracket of the semi-finals, while Miss G. McCall and Miss D. Morley, Willows Club players, will meet in the other portion of the draw.

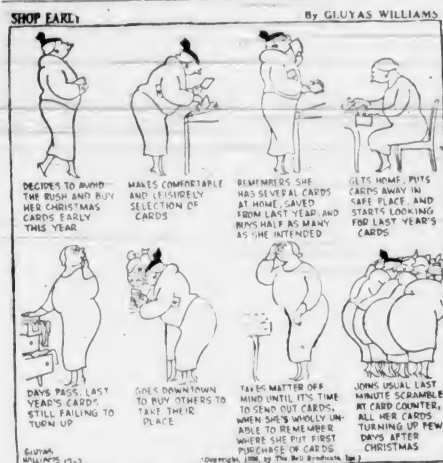

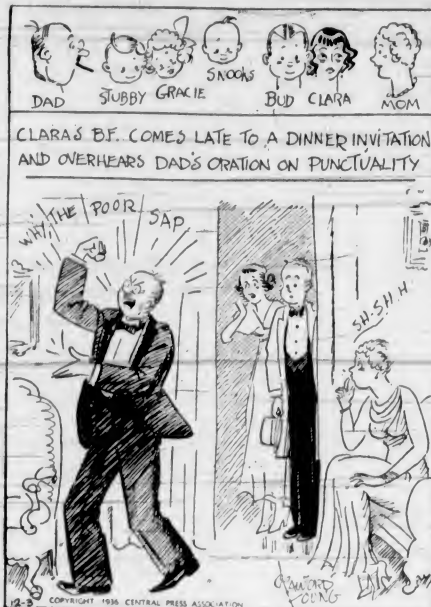

George Lane is scheduled to oppose Des Bleasdale, and Don Davis is billed to play Ted Simmons in the men's singles semi-finals. Simmons reached the final last year against Lane.

Play will get under way this evening at 7 o'clock, and when the last match is played the slate will be cleared for the finals tomorrow evening.

THE RESULTS
Results follow:
Men's Singles
G. Lane won from R. Bagley, 15-12, 15-8.
D. Davis won from P. Phillips, 15-14, 15-12.
D. Bleasdale won from P. Colclough, 15-12, 15-4.
E. T. Simmons won from R. A. Phillips, 15-4, 15-3.

Men's Doubles, Handicap
R. Hoadley and R. Hurdle (3) won from W. Delf and R. E. Wilkins (1), 15-10, 15-12.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"COLDSLAW" FOR "COLESLAW"

There are no two ways about it, we should say or write "coldslaw" but coleslaw.

"Coldslaw" is wrong, coleslaw is right usage; we might just as well, better in fact, be correct, not careless or sloppy.

Coleslaw is from the Dutch "kool sla," cabbage or salad.

The error arose out of a misconception of the meaning of the Dutch word "kool" and the fact that the dish was usually served cold.

Pikington retired from the city and went to live in the country. In due course a neighbor called on his wife. She said:

"I hear your husband has taken up hunting. Do you approve of that?"

"I don't know about approving," said the sportsman's wife, "but it makes life more exciting. We never know which to expect home first, my husband or the horse."

Jane Dixon Says:

THE POOREST SORT OF AN EXCUSE FOR CHEAP BEHAVIOUR IS TO SAY THAT "OTHER PEOPLE DO IT."

Come a young man who gambled with love, was caught cheating at the game, and now bewails the price he must pay for losing. He admits he took a brief flyer in the subversive love game. And how do you think he alibis himself?

Thus: "After all, I haven't done anything more than a lot of young men do, and get away with it."

Very true. But it happens that this young man did not get away with it.

The poorest sort of an excuse for cheap behaviour, or for letting down our own moral standards, is to say that "other people do it." We do not pay off nor are we paid off on what other people do. We pay off and are paid on what we do.

Quite a lot of misfits in the world commit murder and arson and burglary, and other crimes high and low.

WE'RE JUDGED BY OUR OWN MISTAKES

When I face the judge, he is not going to sentence me on their performances. He will demand to know whether I have committed murder, set fire, stolen, disturbed the peace, or whatever it is with which I am charged. And I'll pay the price according to my own commitments, not the commitments of my fellow offenders who have escaped the price.

Dear Miss Dixon: My girl and I used to get along fine. I love her with all my heart, and I know she loves me sincerely. She is very affectionate and used to make a lot over me. She seemed, too, to like me to make love to her. I know we are an ideally suited couple in every way. I want to marry her.

All was well until a short time ago, when she began hearing reports about another girl and me. It's true that I did have a little affair with this other girl, but I can't admit it to my real girl. I told her the other one and I were just friends. Anyway, I've given that girl up, and have tried in every possible way to prove to my real sweetheart that she means everything to me.

No matter what I do, she acts strange to me. We still have a few dates, and she always seems glad to see me. We talk and laugh as usual, but that's the end of it. She doesn't "make over" me any more. If I put my arms around her, she doesn't try to draw away, but she acts as though it doesn't matter whether I make love to her or not.

MYSTIFIED BY HER ACTIONS

Every now and then she gets a far-away look in her eyes, and I can't seem to reach her. I've asked her why she acts this way, and she just shrugged and said: "I can't help caring for you, but I can help giving you another chance to make me sorry I've given you so much of myself." Now, what does she mean by that?

I don't know where I stand. She hasn't exactly put me out, but I know if I didn't try to see her again, she wouldn't bother to get in touch with me as she used to do when we had our little troubles. She's mighty nice to me, but she's the same to all her friends. I don't know what to do.

I suspect the other girl told her a lot of nonsense. I'll admit I was wrong, but, after all, I haven't done any more than a lot of boys do, but I can't tell her that. I really love her. How can I get her back again?—Young Man Worried.

Answer: If the girl really loves you, she will forgive your defection. Eventually she will forget in a way—but you'll have to give her time. Deep wounds are not healed in a day.

Don't try to force her love. Be courteous and cheerful and attentive, but no longer apologetic.

There is such a thing as being too abject, an attitude which becomes very tiresome if carried over any considerable length of time. Be sure your sincerity by your conduct. If the girl continues her coolness and disinterest, you must conclude that you have lost her love and there is nothing you can do about that.
